

Independence Day Celebration

We, along with the other American expats, were invited to celebrate the American Independence Day (4th of July) at the American Ambassador's home this year. It was quite a celebration! There was a parade of children where all the kids lined up and walked down the road that was blocked for the excursion, there was American food (hot dogs and hamburgers with soda), there were games, there were bouncy slides, and there were friends. I hope you enjoy the photos of our fun afternoon.

All the little girls were excited to hold hands and walk the parade together

Posing in front of the Congolese River

Weeeeeeee!

Candy floss

Mini Putt-Putt

Ring Toss fun

Soda bottle bowling

Bright eyes enjoyed the attention