

Mother Moments #10

Sometimes motherhood looks like this...

I believe this moment needs no explanation. The "three-nager" years have been rough for this little boundary pusher. Some days it takes every bit of grace and prayer to make it to bedtime. Often times I just want to giggle when I catch the things I end up saying to her:

"Don't ride your brother! He's not a horse!;

If Solomon wanted you to lick his face, he'd tell you so!;

Sweetheart, mommy can't walk while you are hiding under her skirt.;

Stop growling at your friend - she is scared of dinosaurs!"

I must be doing something right if I have to laugh at the things that come out of my mouth!
