

Happy 1st Birthday

Last Wednesday (11-11) was Solomon's first birthday and I am a little late posting photos! As a family we decided to keep the day low key - just us and little man. We lavished him with attention and little snacks. Since he has been a late comer to food, we decided to forego the traditional cake and just stick to baby puffs that a friend brought back with them from the United States. Here are a few photos of Solomon enjoying his day.

Showing off the amazing shirt Aunt B made

Enjoying his little car and book from the grandparents

Love those baby blues and strawberry blonde hair!

Adah "reading" to baby Sol

Our handsome little boy